

Park Inn by Radisson opens at Pulkovo Airport in St. Petersburg

July 29, 2014

Russia's first internationally branded hotel with direct skyway access to the airport terminal

Carlson Rezidor, one of the world's largest and most dynamic hotel groups and the leading international hotel operator in Russia/CIS & Baltics, announce the opening of Park Inn by Radisson Pulkovo Airport in Russia's cultural capital, St. Petersburg. The hotel offers 200 rooms and suites and has direct connection to the newly build Terminal 1 at Pulkovo Airport which provides utmost convenience for early arrivals, late departures and travelers in transit. The new hotel brought company's portfolio in the city to 6 hotels on more than 2 800 rooms and further strengthens Carlson Rezidor leading positions on St. Petersburg market.

The 200 stylish rooms bring a colourful blend of modern and contemporary décor and furnishings, with customizing LED mood lighting panels for a personalised ambience, floor to ceiling windows with natural daylight and modern amenities. Each room offers Free Wireless High-speed Internet access, flat-screen television with satellite, in room safe and individual climate control. After a long flight, guests can choose retreat to a peaceful room or recharge with a session at the in-house fitness center.

St. Petersburg fliers can start the day at live-inn room with a healthy breakfast buffet. The live-inn room also serves lunch and dinner with delicious local and international favorites; it's a space that evolves to meet guests' needs: whatever they want it for – meeting, eating, drinking, working, playing – there's the right space for everybody.

The hotel enjoys a prime location at the Pulkovo Airport Terminal 1 and just 5 minutes drive from Expoforum, St. Petersburg's most modern convention and events centre. Its 18 well-equipped and flexible meeting rooms can accommodate up to 395 guests on two different floors. Park Inn by Radisson' signature Smart Meetings and Events service features Free Wireless High-speed Internet access, Yes I Can! attitude and professional event support to make each meeting and event remarkable.

"As Russia's first internationally branded hotel with direct skyway access to the main passenger terminal, Park Inn by Radisson Pulkovo Airport is positioned to be the preferred choice for transit passengers, early arrivals and late departures. With an enthusiastic "Yes I Can!" team – coached by experienced managers recruited from the three other Park Inn by Radisson hotels in St. Petersburg - our guests are sure to be impressed by our attentive and genuine hospitality," said David Morris, General Manager of the Park Inn by Radisson Pulkovo Airport.

St. Petersburg is one of the most modern and well-known Russian cities. Historically built by Italian architects, its network of canals and baroque and neoclassical architecture give the town a European flavor. Being the northernmost big city in the world, St. Petersburg is known for its magical White Nights: those long summer days when the sun barely dips below the horizon. But even when the ground is covered in snow, the rich culture of St Petersburg delights. Park Inn by Radisson Pulkovo Airport St. Petersburg is only 18 kilometers away from city centre. It is perfectly connected by public bus transport departing every 15 minutes.
